

LIST OF PERSONS AWARDED THE ORDER OF INDUSTRIAL HEROISM

Details of all the awards presented 1923-1964 are published in The Order of Industrial Heroism (Eric Gill's Medal for the Daily Herald) by W.H. Fevyer, J.W. Wilson and J. Cribb. The book is available from The General Secretary, Orders and Medals Research Society, PO Box 1904, Southam CV47 2ZX

GROUP AND MULTIPLE AWARDS

Such was the nature of industrial accidents that frequently more than one rescuer was involved and consequently more than one bravery award could be granted. In some cases, a large number of persons were involved in the rescue attempts and the Order of Industrial Heroism was awarded as recognition of the efforts of a large group. In all six cases where this occurred the recipients were Miners' Lodges. In other cases, where up to five rescuers were recognised as worthy of receiving the award for the same incident, each person received their own individual medal and certificate.

Group Awards

The first recognition given to a Union Lodge was in 1927 when Marine Lodge No 1, Ebbw Vale received the OIH. On the same day the Tanfield Lea Lodge, Durham Miners Association also received an OIH. In 1930 the South Garesfield Lodge, Durham Miners Association received an award and some months later the Gelliceidrim Lodge, South Wales Anthracite miners Association, were also rewarded. The next group award was made in 1956 to the Manvers Main Lodge, National Union of Miners and the last award in this category was made in 1961 to the Hickleton Main Colliery, Yorkshire.
